

CMS Seminar: Open Societies and Freedom of Speech - Strategic Challenges and Opportunities

Open societies have thrived and attracted friends through their attachment to democratic values such as freedom of speech, but this model is increasingly under pressure from inside and outside. What strategic challenges and opportunities beckon for open societies in an age of surveillance, autocratic prominence and democratic self-doubt?

To discuss these issues, the Centre for Military Studies has the pleasure to invite you to a seminar with:

Stanley Sloan (Middlebury College, VT, and Atlantic Council, Washington D.C.)

Jacob Mchangama (Justitia, Copenhagen)

Hanna Ziadeh (PhD, Human Rights and Constitutional Studies)

Moderator:

Henrik Breitenbauch (Centre for Military Studies, Copenhagen)

Time and venue:

Wednesday 4 March 2020 at 13:30-15:00
Department of Political Science
Øster Farimagsgade 5
1353 København K
Room 15.3.01

Read more and register here no later than Monday 2 March 2020: <https://cms.polsci.ku.dk/events/>. Seats are limited.