The Future of International Criminal Justice: An Insider's View

International criminal justice stands at a crossroads. With questions over its effectiveness, efficiency, and survival in a hostile political climate, its future is uncertain. From Srebrenica to Darfur, Cambodia, Ukraine, Syria and Palestine, Andrew Cayley CMG KC has spent three decades on the frontline of war crimes trials. In this candid talk, he reflects on the successes, failures, and hard lessons of international justice — and asks the vital question: where do we go from here?

Time: Tuesday, 10 October at 15:00-16:30.

Place: 8B-3-03, Njalsgade 76, 2300 Copenhagen S.

Register here no later than 9 October:
