UN Peace Operations: Canadian and Danish Perspectives

With over 100.000 UN peacekeepers in 16 missions worldwide, peacekeeping is in high demand, and much attention is currently devoted to improving UN peace operations. Both Canada and Denmark contribute to these discussions. But what is the status of this reform agenda? What can be done, including with technology, to enable more effective peacekeeping? And what is the status of Danish and Canadian approaches and contributions to UN peace operations?

To discuss these important questions, the University of Copenhagen's Centre for Military Studies and the Embassy of Canada to the Kingdom of Denmark, have the great pleasure of inviting you to a panel debate with Canadian and Danish experts on UN peace operations:

Senior researcher Katja Lindskov Jacobsen, Centre for Military Studies

Professor Walter Dorn, Royal Canadian Military College

Senior researcher Louise Riis Andersen, Danish Institute for International Studies
